Dear Hiring Manager:

I am writing this letter related to the position of Junior QA Engineer. I am qualified for the position given my five years of experience in QA. I have an excellent understanding of testing principles and a passion for finding problems from the user perspective. I graduated from Shin Chien University in Taiwan in 2017 and I am excited to start work given that I have a permit obtained through the International Experience Canada program.

I have effective experiences with Scrum development flow and tools like Jira and Confluence, I also have a lot of involvement with how employees collect and share information efficiently due to working in a global team.

Through my experiences at Barco N.V., I have a strong understanding of HTTP, REST API, and JSON format. I ensured nothing went wrong during testing. And I tested the registration status among back-end servers. I am skilled with planning integrated testing for the API library updates to avoid side effects. The experiences section of my resume highlights my career profile, which aligns with this position.

I believe Method: CRM would benefit from my skills in the following areas:

- Three years experience as a Scrum tester and a total of five years in QA
- Familiar with Jira, Confluence, Testopia, and Bugzilla
- Positive attitude and ability to work under pressure
- Certified for the course ISTQB (International Software Testing Qualifications Board)
- Open-minded to working in a diverse team and experience in communicating with many roles, such as the product owner and stakeholders.

Software testing plays an important role in my life, and I like learning different testing methods, tools, and frameworks. Throughout my technology industry career, I continually enjoy learning new information and never hesitate to raise a problem and solve it.

As a side note, I also had experiences outside of my job to include being a co-host for activities such as International Volunteer Camp and Welfare Committee at Barco N.V. Such activities demonstrate that I am an engaged and enthusiastic team player.

I would invite the opportunity to share more with you in an interview and learn about your organization. Thank you for your time and consideration.

Sincerely,

Jill Niu
